

Hobstar Preview: June, 2012

11 1/2" round tray cut in the Arabesque pattern by Hoare.

“Woody Auction Results” reported that this 21 1/2” tall cut glass oil lamp cut in the Kenwood pattern sold for $13,500 at the May 19, 2012 sale in St. Charles, MO. A 34” tall banquet lamp in an unidentified design sold for $13,000. A Libbey Columbia pattern champagne pitcher sold for $10,500, and a 14 1/2” across two part punch bowl in Arabian II by Egginton fetched $9,000. Each matching pedestal punch cup had rim repair.

In the “Question of the Month” Craig Carlson interviewed Fred Matthews, one of the few active cut glass repairmen focused on Brilliant Era cut glass. Fred describes and pictures the various types of stone cutting wheels that produce various decorative effects and motifs.

The second edition of the Lone Star Cookbook is nearing production. Published in 1994 and out of print since 1996, this highly desirable Cookbook has more than 180 wonderfully rare cut glass illustrations, plus many delicious and time-tested recipes. Cooking with Class, Dining on Glass is highly entertaining, a must-have cut glass reference, and a great Christmas gift. Errors in one recipe are corrected, an index plus two pages of pattern identification information have been added. Other-wise, the 2nd Edition looks just like the earlier coil-bound Cookbooks, and contains all photos and recipes appearing in the earlier book.

The “Pattern Quiz” last month presented this ice cream plate cut in the No. 206 pattern by Libbey, as pictured in their 1910 catalog.

“Reminded by the Cut Glass Gods . . . Krantz, Smith & Co. is Under-Appreciated” by Linda Jo Hare argues that Krantz, Smith produced quality cut glass, as evidenced by the Atlas and Yosemite examples pictured. These designs display wonderful Brilliant Era attributes—finely cut, nicely polished, on quality blanks

Bowl cut in the Atlas pattern by Krantz, Smith & Co.
